ARCHITECTURE AND DESIGN AWARDS

Vinyl Social Club in Sioux
Falls, S.D.

The 35th Annual BJI
Architecture & Design Awards
winners are as much a feast for the eyes as any, featuring gorgeous attention to detail, vividly executed concepts, and a nearly boundless array of entertainment options.

BEST NEW CENTER

VINYL SOCIAL CLUB / vinyltaco.com

SIOUX FALLS, S.D.

This establishment's co-owner, Kirk Keupp, explains that Vinyl Social Club is an outgrowth of its neighboring restaurant, Vinyl Taco, "the whole theme of which is '70s rock 'n roll." Its dashing homage to the days of glam rock and punk serves up the most distinctively conceptual project among all those submitted for this year's BJI Architecture & Design Awards. "We wanted to create a space that kind of looked like your grandparents' basement," Keupp explains. No detail went overlooked in the endeavor to execute that charming ambiance. "We did a lot of paneling and we did some shag carpeting. We did an old, retro fireplace, and we have a bunch of lava lamps along with our gaming — the bowling (duckpin only), shuffleboard, a Nintendo 64 on a large screen, ping pong. We just wanted to create a place where you can hang out, have fun, and do some things that you don't see in every bar you come across."

BEST NEW CENTER – BOUTIQUE, U.S.

RED STICK SOCIAL CLUB / redsticksocial.com
BATON ROUGE, LA.

This 32,000-sq-ft. space in the Mid City neighborhood of Baton Rouge, La., stood vacant for years after having previously served as an icehouse built at the turn of the last century. It later was converted into an electric power plant. The vibe remains electric, but the building's days as a power plant are long gone after owner Robert Lay gave the space this vibrant reimagining as an entertainment center while maintaining its turn-of-the-20th-century aesthetic. Entertainment options abound: A stage for live acts, 10 lanes of bowling spread across two of the business's five floors, a full-service bar and restaurant, a recreational greenspace outdoors, private bar and rooftop terrace. If you're not having fun in these industrial-chic environs, you're not having fun anywhere.

- Owner: Robert Lay
- Architect: DNA Workshop

BEST NEW CENTER – BOUTIQUE, U.S. (HONORABLE MENTION)

PINZ / pinzowl.com
NEW HARTFORD, N.Y.

Among the distinguishing characteristics of this chic hang-out is a trend featured among other winners in this year's BJI Architecture & Design Awards — a nod to an aspect of bowling's distant past: above-ground ball returns. "They're going with the 24-Volt String pinsetter that we offer," explains US Bowling's Mike Conejo, "and when you go with the 24-Volt String pinsetter, you get above-ground ball returns, which we have at all our Punch Bowl Social locations as well. ... That's just kind of the trend the industry is going in, the string pinsetter." The gorgeous, variegated sidewall treatment here, accented by tasteful LED lighting and plush, Chesterfield sofas, establish a rich tension between past and present that elevates this center among submissions in the New Boutique category this year.

- Owners: David Breen and Jim Smith
- Architect: DalPos Architects
- Interior Designer: US Design Lab
- Bowling Manufacturer: US Bowling Corporation provided 24-Volt String Pinsetters with Above Ground Ball Return System, Murrey Custom Blue Lanes and Pulse Scoring Entertainment System

KINOBOWLING GLEISDORF / kinobowling.at
GLEISDORF, AUSTRIA

The ravishing, brick interior of the lounge space within this stunner of a center in Gleisdorf, Austria, brought to glowing life by its many hovering pendant lamps, successfully executes a vision that combines a rustic vibe with modern elements. Sizzling interior lighting throughout the space keeps the establishment throbbing with energy while plush, vermillion-red seating in the portion of the lounge that neighbors the check-in counter lends a lavish touch to this decidedly classy joint.

HYPERBOWLING

MIDDELBURG / hyperbowling.nl

MIDDELBURG, NETHERLANDS

If the interior design of this establishment seems to evoke the set of a film by Stanley Kubrick, famed director of "2001: A Space Odyssey," you're on to something. Co-owner Jasper Van Runsoever explains that, "What we tried to do concept-wise was take old elements from the classic, old-style bowling center and align it with the new HyperBowling game to get a positive tension between old and new. That's why we chose the Big Lebowski sign, which has a 1970s, retro feel, wood construction and a lot of old-style interior elements, but to give it a very modern, 2020 feel, combining it with HyperBowling, up-tempo music, and a very luxurious boutique area with high-end furniture." It may be more 2020 than 2001, but Bowltech Middelburg audaciously executes the futuristic vision Van Runsoever describes, embodying a tribute to the sport's earlier days.

BEST NEW CENTER – BEST NEW LOUNGE/RESTAURANT

FIFTH ARROW / fiftharrow.com
SAN FRANCISCO, CALIF.

This former Prohibition-Era speakeasy comes with all the fascinating history such a context promises, and as US Bowling's Mike Conejo explains, that was the fun of this project. "Apparently, when you entered the front door, there was a slide, which was how you would access the basement, and that's where the bar was during the Prohibition Era." Such distinctive history meant that US Bowling wanted to ensure it selected lanes that preserved the establishment's past. "We put in above-ground ball returns, and the lanes are new synthetic lanes, but they're made to look like the lanes of old. I designed those lanes based off of photos of old lanes. That was our tip of the hat to the retro past." The same can be said of this lounge's rustic and minimalist interior design, which is intimately evocative of the days of Al Capone and, yes, slipping down a slide into a basement bar under cover of night.

BEST NEW CENTER — ANCILLARY PROFIT

ROXY BALL ROOM / roxyballroom.com
LIVERPOOL, UNITED KINGDOM

It is called Roxy Ball Room, and as its name's allusion to the Bryan Ferry and Brian Eno-led art rock group of the 1970s implies, pop and rock-music history dominates the Roxy Leisure brand. Locate that identity within a city as central to pop music history as Liverpool, home of The Beatles, Echo & The Bunnymen and Flock of Seagulls among other notable acts, and you have an adrenaline rush of what Roxy Leisure's Joel Mitchell calls "Our bread and butter — that soundtrack, that type of feel, that vibe. The idea that you can have a dive bar but not be a dive bar is something that we strive for." The graffiti art prominent throughout this establishment is one way Roxy strives for that dive bar feel at all of its locations — though, being Liverpool, this one is heavy with Beatles art, including a sizable, graffitied George Harrison portrait on one wall. "We always try to nod to the local area," Mitchell says. "For instance, our Manchester site has Oasis and Stone Roses." The rock era may well be dead, but it comes alive here in Roxy Liverpool with one of the most meticulous interior design jobs submitted in this year's BJI Architecture & Design Awards. Owners: Matthew and Ben Jones

PARKWAY SOCIAL

ST. CATHARINES, ONTARIO, CANADA

The former Parkway Lanes in St. Catharines, Ontario, Canada, marked its 50th anniversary in a larger-than-life way with this stunning makeover spearheaded by interior designer Crystal Arreola and architect Peter Lesdow under the supervision of owners Angelo and son Tom Nitsopoulos. The gorgeous, exposed ductwork and beaming overhead, which had been obscured by acoustic tiling before Arreola made the bold decision to remove it, helps establish a vibe that is at once rustic, industrial and modern, with a sleek and sexy eight-lane VIP area lending a boutique feel to an otherwise sizable center of 30 lanes overall.

LEBOWSKI PIZZA & BOWLING / Instagram.com/lebowski_bowling/
SALMYSHSKAYA, RUSSIA

While this gorgeous renovation job pays homage to its namesake from the famed film (the White Russian ranks among the bar's signature cocktail offerings) it also serves up a heaping dose of class. Owner Roman Kunilovskiy explains that, "Special attention has been given to creating a cozy chamber space with beautiful, dim lighting, a bowling area rich in dark greens and beiges with light brown, overstuffed sofas, and one of our most distinctive design elements — our black 'keg wall.'" Kunilovskiy takes particular pride in Lebowski's menu — the pear and blue cheese pizza, made in a wood oven installed as part of the renovation and prepared with Italian flour, is a big hit. "From now on, our cuisine is not just an addition to the game; it is an integral part of the experience [at Lebowski's]." And a memorable experience, it is.

BEST RENOVATED CENTER — INTERIOR, U.S.

THE LANES AT THE HOWARD

OSHKOSH, WIS.

The renovation of this center, which originally opened in 1927, began with an act of reverence for the building it involved. "We were looking to restore the building back to its former state; it had not previously been listed on the national or state historic register, so we went through that process," explains co-owner Carey Sharpe, who purchased the property in May 2017 with sister Jenna Golem, then spent more than a year renovating it. The endeavor to honor the building's history intensified from there, including the recreation of the wooden, above-ground ball returns, "which was very hard to do, because nobody makes wooden ball returns anymore," says Sharpe. "Oshkosh is not a very big town, and we kind of were looking for a big-city feel, something different than what would otherwise be located in our town." Combine that big-city vision with Carey and Golem's efforts to restore the elegance of the building's 1920s-era roots, and you have one of the poshest bowling hangouts the country has to offer.

SWING BOWLING & RESTAURANT AT HOLIDAY WORLD MASPALOMAS / HolidayWorldMaspalomas.com

MASPALOMAS, GRAN CANARIA

The starkly minimalist flourishes that prevail in this longtime center's renovation make for a richly distinctive experience, with everything from the ball racks and furniture to the ball returns, settee area and check-in counter evoking a mid-century modern aesthetic. The space has served Maspalomas, Gran Canaria, in the Canary Islands for decades, and underwent what its promotional literature describes as a "reinvention" last year. The sprawling, 36,000-sq.-ft. complex offers a nearly boundless array of entertainment options — an amusement park, a children's playground, karaoke, escape rooms, a restaurant and much more — but it's the reimagined bowling center's unique interior design that may make the most lasting impression upon patrons.

BEST RENOVATED CENTER – VIP

THE BACK ALLEY

BUTLER, PA.

Originally opened in 1951, this center's renovation focused on bringing to the community of Butler, Pa., the likes of an experience it never had seen before. Enter Jeff Double at All About Reclaimed in Butler, who says that, "Butler is a very traditional community, and we have a lot of rustic and traditional design in venue space, and we wanted to go a different direction completely to make [The Back Alley] one of a kind." That involved bringing in "a lot of repurposed material, unexpected repurposed material," Double says. Those materials included trailer truck panels and reclaimed bowling equipment, which helped elevate the rustic and industrial ambiance to a level of experience locals likely will find to be a refreshing change of pace for the area.

SPARE TIME WINDSOR LOCKS / Sparetime.com

WINDSOR LOCKS, CONN.

Lindsey Fortunato Todisco, the architect and interior designer responsible for implementing Bowl New England Inc.'s vision for a reimagined Spare Time Windsor Locks (Conn.), explains that, "It's a center with a lot of history, so we wanted to do a couple things that would honor that while also transforming the center into an FEC." Doing that, Todisco says, meant creating a space that "was fun but also sophisticated." That sophistication comes out in particular in the center's renovated lounge area, which now is poised to attract more corporate groups and is the first thing patrons encounter upon walking into the center. "We were going for really rich tones in that space, a lot of wood and stools and fantastic wall covering to bring a lot of sophistication into what is essentially a very family-oriented space."
